The bedroom of cannabis factory in Bossiney Place, Fishermead

Drugs factories busted

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

TWO men have been charged with cultivating class C drugs after police uncovered three cannabis farms on the same estate.

Officers raided three homes in Fishermead on Wednesday and Thursday and found thousands of fully-cultivated cannabis plants growing inside.

The recent discoveries take the number of drugs farms found in Milton Keynes this year to five.

Last year a total of 16 farms were uncovered but the Assistant Chief Constable at Thames Valley Police told MK NEWS that many more could remain hidden.

Last Wednesday evening police raided a home in Bossiney Place but the occupant managed to escape through the back garden, leaving behind a house filled with cannabis.

Officers found an estimated 600 plants growing in the living room, garage, and two bedrooms upstairs.

Another room had bedding and a nursery for young plants.

The property was secured before an electricity provider was called in to secure the electrics, which had been tampered to bypass the mains.

Sergeant Mark Ridley, neighbourhood officer, said: "This all came about through intelligence from sources in the community.

"We came to look at the property and the lights were on so we decided to do a door knock.

"One of the lights went out another one followed. A male jumped out of the back window and over a fence and we lost him down the back lane."

He added that the plants were approaching their time of yield, meaning they had been growing for several months.

At 3pm on Thursday officers forced entry at a house on Mullion Place, found one man inside and between 600 to 1,000 plants growing upstairs.

Fifteen minutes later they entered another house and found a similar scene.

Two properties in Fishermead were raided earlier in the month as part of Operation Falcoln.

One, in Porthleven Place, was home to 979 cannabis plants, the other showed evidence that a cannabis farm had previously operated there.

Police across the country have been advised that one "grower" will generally farm 10 houses in close proximity.

■ TWO men have appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court to face charges of cultivating cannabis.

Sung Van Tran, 39, pleaded guilty to one charge of cultivating cannabis and will be sentenced at crown court.

He was remanded in custody on Saturday.

Van Tuong Vu, 34, appeared before magistrates yesterday and was remanded until his case is sent to crown court in February.

He has not yet entered a plea.

Police issue e-fit of assault suspect

POLICE have released this e-fit of a man they would like to question about a serious assault.

The unprovoked attack occurred in the carpark outside the Tesco Express in Newport Pagnell at around 8.50pm on Thursday, January 17.

A 15-year-old boy was assaulted by a gang of teenagers using telescopic iron bars.

A spokesman for Thames Valley Police said officers in Newport Pagnell have carried out a number of interviews and have been working to identify the main offender.

They believe his name is Kyle and described him as white, about 18-years-old, around 5ft 10ins, with brown hair.

He wore a green jacket, jeans and trainers.

Anyone with information can contact police on 08458 505505.

Flood defences need £600,000 expenditure

A resident looks on as flood waters hit his home for the second time in a month

AN ESTIMATED £600,000 worth of work is to be carried out to prevent flash floods from once again swamping Stoke Goldington.

The second phase of a £30,000 inquiry into the floods which hit the village last summer has been released this week, following analysis of the hydraulic capacity of the drainage network.

Stoke Goldington was flooded twice in a month last July after heavy rain burst the banks of two brooks which meet just west of the High Street and flow under it in a culvert.

Results showed that the open channels and culverts created some of the flooding problems, the remainder being caused by surface water run-off from higher ground.

The report recommends to hold the water back on higher land during heavy storms with balancing lakes and release it in a controlled manner as the storm abates.

Kevin Whiteside, chief highways engineer at Milton Keynes Council said: "This, together with targeted improvements to local drainage systems, will reduce significantly the likelihood and impact of storm damage."

The report was carried out by an expert consultant commissioned by the council.

The council is now putting together a five year programme of implementation.

The balancing lakes could be located on the field west of Orchard Way and the field south of Dag Lane.

The report also suggests that a flood warning system could be implemented within the village.

Cabinet member in charge of emergency planning, Cllr Douglas McCall, said: "The Cabinet is committed to fund the half million pounds worth of work. We hope to put £150k in the 2008/09 Capital Programme, but this has not yet been set."

The council has already spent £15,000 on carrying out a number of immediate works, including ditch cleaning in Orchard Way and alongside the playing field by the village hall.

Serial shoplifter swiped sex aids

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A SHOPLIFTER has been convicted after stealing nearly £500 worth of sex toys.

Margaret Rita Walsh (pictured), 49, stole the 'Rampant Rabbit' vibrators from the Ann Summers shop in thecentre:mk on December 9 last year.

On Monday she appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court.

The court heard that Walsh and a friend were spotted by a member of the public loading the vibrators into a carrier bag before leaving the shop without paying.

The witness followed the pair to a car outside, while his wife informed the shop staff.

Walsh returned to the shop unaware she had been spotted, before staff followed her back out to the vehicle and alerted the police.

Officers found a bag in the car containing £478 of Rampant Rabbits, worth at least £25 each.

Lavina Hobdale, defending, said: "There are times when she has offended to support a habit. Margaret is a prolific offender but she is positive and in the mood for change.

"She doesn't have a partner; at the moment she is on her own.

"She doesn't go out clubbing at night, she stays in."

Mother-of-five Walsh, who was already under a drug rehabilitation order, pleaded guilty to two charges of theft.

The second charge related to the theft of food from a Sainsbury's supermarket in October last year.

Walsh, of Seymour Road, Luton, was sentenced to a 12 month community order and ordered to pay costs of £60.

The sex toys were recovered and returned to Ann Summers.

Epileptic's body found in bushes

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

POLICE were unable to get epilepsy medicine for a man while he was in custody, an inquest has heard.

Michael Morton's body was found in bushes 200 metres from Milton Keynes police station 13 days after he was released on bail in the early hours of November 16, 2006.

The 37-year-old of Stolford Rise, Tattenhoe, was still wearing a yellow custody tracksuit when he was discovered by Parks Trust workers at 8.50am on November 29.

He was seen by a police doctor twice in custody after being arrested for theft on November 15.

Police officers described him as vacant, unresponsive and staring.

Police surgeon Dr Arvind Karia assessed him twice and believed the known epilepsy sufferer had had an epileptic fit.

In a statement read out to the court he said: "I observed that at times he had exhibited black looks."

He said he Mr Morton – who was given the suit because he had soiled himself – was fit to be detained, but would not be fit for interview until he was more alert.

Dr Karia recommended half hourly checks and told officers that someone would need to go and get his medication from home.

But when officers went to Mr Morton's house to get the medication they could not enter the property with his keys.

They said cobwebs across the door suggested it had not been opened for a while and a neighbour said Mr Morton had not been seen for weeks or months.

PC Tom Barcham said: "It was obvious that it was an unused door, it was quite dirty.

"The top lock was a Yale type of security lock, it was brand new, the shape of the lock was different to the previous lock, you could see from the paintwork.

"Had it have gone in we would have tried to turn it, but it wouldn't even go into the lock."

Mr Morton's mother Ann Morton said she had used the keys to get into the house on November 7.

Forensic pathologist Dr Nicholas Hunt – who unusually found two bars of soap in Mr Morton's underpants – was unable to identify a single cause of death.

Toxicology reports showed that he had not been taking his epilepsy medication, and Dr Hunt said he might have suffered a sudden unexplained death in epilepsy.

The tests also showed a very high level of ketone bodies – specifically beta-hydroxybutyrates – in his blood. Over 2,500 micromoles per litre of blood spells danger and can cause sudden death, but Mr Morton had 10,570 micromoles per litre which meant he was suffering with ketoacidosis.

Coroner Rodney Corner said: "Looking at his problems it is an awfully sad case. His health and his behavioural problems were really dealing him quite a cruel blow."

Dr Hunt added: "There was nothing inconsistent with him having died shortly after his release."

The inquest – at which a jury is sitting – is expected to last three days.

Not a dry eye in the stadium

IT never rains, it pours especially at MK Dons.

Pitchside water sprinklers provided an unwanted interruption during their 1-0 defeat to Rochdale as they burst into action ten minutes from time (above).

The faulty device at stadiummk poured onto the Rochdale half but that didn't stop Drissa Diallo battling through as his side searched for an equaliser.

After a few moments the referee stopped the game while groundsman Joe Aylett dashed frantically behind scenes to stop the spray.

And just as it was safe to return to the pitch a second sprinkler started, which was greeted by cheers from the crowd.

When play eventually resumed six minutes were added on.

A Dons spokesman said: "A technical problem caused the pitch watering system to come on at an unscheduled time.

"Ground staff acted quickly to ensure the event could be restarted, and have since rectified the problem."

Teenager, 14, loses fight for life

AN INSPIRATIONAL school girl has lost her battle with cancer.

Thirteen-year-old Rachel Wheeler passed away on Friday, three days before her 14th birthday.

She was a year nine student at Shenley Brook End School and yesterday a letter was sent out to parents informing them of the news.

Rachel, who lived with her mother in Furzton, suffered from Hodgkins Disease and was frequently in and out of hospital.

Vivienne Wood, pupil inclusion manager at Shenley Brook End School, said: "It's very sad for us.

"She was lovely and she was always smiling.

"She loved coming to school.

"Somebody called her an inspiration yesterday.

"The children have found it very difficult to come to terms with."

Politicians' cynicism

SIR - Having followed the debate regarding funding for the Open University closely, is it really any surprise that people are increasingly cynical about politicians when MP's like Dr Starkey sign a fellow city MP's motion, only then to refuse to vote for it when it comes to the crunch?

Is this just another in a long list of examples of Dr Starkey putting her Parliamentary career ahead of the constituents she claims to represent?

John Brown
Central Milton Keynes

Watling St traffic lights

SIR -Try as I might, I can not find anything in any report (including the 2005 Local Plan) that states that there has been any hint of, let alone consultation, on the bleak prospect of traffic lights along Watling St.

MK Council seems determined to misinform residents and should immediately drop plans and hold a proper consultation process.

The possibility of a stop-start driving culture on Watling St will bring with it rat running and increased CO2 emissions and poisoning of gardens along the route past Galley Hill and Two Mile Ash in particular. Residents along the route did not buy their homes only to have them turned into smog and choking carbon zones. What health audit has the Council carried out and what will be the damage to wildlife and to house values?

Paul Bartlett
Woodside, Stony Stratford

Tories' school tactics

SIR - Children and young people must not be used as political pawns.

I have been absolutely disgusted recently to see irresponsible members of the Conservative Party spreading lies about Oakgrove School, causing great distress to children and their parents.

The facts are as follows:

1. There is no truth whatsoever in the rumour that Milton Keynes Council is planning to delay or stop the completion of Phase 3 of Oakgrove.
2. The Council has already spent £750,000 on design fees for Oakgrove Phase 3 and the work will be going out to tender soon.
3. The completion date is September 2009.

I would be most grateful if you could use your letters page to let people know the truth and stop people being alarmed by a politically-motivated scare story. There must be an election coming!

Jill Hope
Lib Dem Parliamentary Candidate,
Milton Keynes North Constituency

Going to the dogs

SIR - I was horrified to read the front page story of MK NEWS last week 'Hoodie' gang in gun attack on mum-to-be.

What has happened to our country?

It seems every time I switch on the news and pick up the papers there is yet another story that details shocking crimes that happen on our streets.

It is a sad state of affairs when a pregnant lady has a gun pointed at her and is pushed to the floor before having her shoes stolen.

I am 100 per cent sure the yobs did not need her shoes, nor did they want them. Most likely they needed to cause some distress to a vulnerable person to get their kicks.

Is this really how some teenagers pass the time on a boring night?

I don't like to tarnish all youngsters with the same brush, I am well aware this is happening up and down Britain and there are criminals of all ages out there.

But unfortunately the innocence of youth has long gone and when I walk down the street now, I will always cross the road if I see a group of hoodies in front of me.

However, as your article proved even playing ignorant to their thuggish behaviour does not make you safe.

Some thing needs to be done before this terrifying culture gets even more out of hand.

Mrs White
sent in by e-mail

'Check facts Irene'

SIR - I read with interest the letter from Irene Henderson with regard to council house- building.

While her reasoning is excellent, her grasp of the facts is woefully inadequate.

As the cabinet member responsible for housing, I thought she might be aware the the discount for council house 'right-to-buy' has been capped to £32,000 outside London to stop property speculators making quick profits.

Houses with tenancies not covered by the right to buy scheme are provided by housing Associations, surely it is not beyond the realms of possibility to let new houses on short term contracts, which would remain in council stock. Let's get 10,000 council houses built in Milton Keynes to house the cleaners, shop assistants, bus drivers etc who will be needed by the professional people who can afford to buy houses.

Affordable housing presupposes that houses for sale are not affordable, otherwise a growth in HIMO, with hordes of migrant workers will create a ghetto mentality.

Alan Price
Hulto Drive, Emberton
Housing association resident

A trip to see the MKDons play could lead to a long love affair

SIR- This weekend I took my children along to stadiummk for their first ever football match.

Although MK Dons may have lost the match, it was a thoroughly enjoyable day and I will certainly be returning next time they play at home.

Unlike most grounds the fans were well behaved, the songs were fun with acceptable language and there was a good family orientated vibe about the place.

It was great to see almost 8,000 people attend a match in the so-called 'basement league' and hopefully if the promotion-hunt comes good the fan base will grow even stronger.

Mr D Short
Stony Stratford

Petrol prices hit an average of more than 104p

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

AS OIL prices hit a record high the average price of a litre of unleaded petrol in Milton Keynes is now over 104p.

The price of fuel – both diesel and petrol – broke through £1 a litre last year for the first time, but now paying this much to run your car is an every-day occurrence.

Oil prices reached $100 a barrel earlier this month following a decline in the amount of crude oil on the market and unrest in oil-supplying countries.

Fuel duty also went up by 2p a litre in October, so the average price of a litre of unleaded across the country this month is over 104p.

Prices have doubled from the rates seen last January and more than quadrupled since 2002.

As MK NEWS went to press yesterday (January 29) comparison website www.petrolprices.com cited the average price of a litre of unleaded in Milton Keynes as 104.7p, with a litre of diesel at an average of 109.6p.

The highest prices in the area were 108.9p for unleaded and 111.9p for diesel.

The lowest was 101.9p for unleaded at Deanshanger Service Station and 106.9p for diesel at Asda Automat, Bletchley, though prices vary from day to day at each station.

Compared to nearby towns Milton Keynes residents are paying less for their fuel as prices in Bedford, Northampton and Leighton Buzzard are all generally higher.

The average price of a litre of unleaded in Bedford was 105.2p and for diesel 110.6p, in Northampton unleaded was 106.0p and diesel 110.4p and in Leighton Buzzard unleaded was 105.3p and diesel 109.9p.

In Luton prices were slightly lower yesterday with unleaded at 104.3p and diesel 109.4p.

A further increase in fuel duty of 2p per litre is due to take place in April.

Businesses across the country are calling for the Government to halt the increase as higher fuel prices hit their profits.

Andy Wilson, a private hire driver based in Milton Keynes said: "Petrol prices have gone up 50 per cent over the last five years but we haven't put our prices up at all.

"We were earning more five or six years ago, but we are having to work longer hours now.

"Some drivers are working about 14 hour shifts just to earn a living and pay household bills.

"And its not just fuel that is more expensive, its tyres and insurance too."

He said taxi drivers cannot afford to increase their prices as they will lose customers to competition.

"It has affected us a great deal, some drivers are having to seek employment elsewhere," he added.

MK residents could be facing massive debts

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

CONSERVATIVES are warning that in the future Milton Keynes residents could suffer from millions of pounds of debt run up by the council.

It has been predicted that by the year 2011, Milton Keynes Council will have a total debt of £209million in the capital budget.

Next year alone it will be approximately £45m.

Conservatives are worried the debt will impact major capital programmes such as building new schools and roads.

Conservative finance spokesman Cllr David Tunney said: "The money was built into our plans and has been taken out by Central Government.

"The problem is that unless we can fund the development of the city in a proper and sensible way we are simply not going to be able to encourage people to come and buy houses here.

"The Government wants us to build houses but if people are told you can have a house but there's no school for your youngsters to go to they are not going to come.

"The principal obligation is upon the Government and upon English Partnerships to come up with the infrastructure funds to grow the town, because growth is the agenda put upon Milton Keynes by the Government.

"The Government has put this extra burden on us and we need help to do it, we can't do it off our own back."

Worried: Conservative finance spokesman Cllr David Tunney

Mark Lancaster, MP for North East Milton Keynes said: "This is a devastating blow for the city and comes after the recent £64.5m cut for our schools and the £30m cut for the Open University.

"It is looking increasingly as if the Government is deserting Milton Keynes altogether."

Liberal Democrat cabinet member for finance, Cllr Sam Crooks, said the capital programme has not been agreed and is currently going through a consultation process along with the council's general revenue budget.

"The figures have been submitted by the departments for what they would like to do and they are currently being analysed," he said.

"Eventually the Cabinet will sit down and work out what the city can afford so the capital budget will reflect that.

"We have to balance how much roads can have against disabled adaptations and against schools and crematoriums and so on.

"It is an entirely normal process."

The final budget, including Council Tax levels, will be proposed by the Cabinet on February 19 and agreed by Full Council on February 26. Both meetings are open to the public.

The deadline for the budget consultation is February 4, 2008.

You can have your say by visiting the council's website at www.milton-keynes.gov.uk/budget-consultation, email budget@milton-keynes.gov.uk, call 01908 252696 or write to Budget 2008, FREEPOST ANG7122, Milton Keynes Council, Civic Offices, 1 Saxon Gate East, Milton Keynes, MK9 3JB.

A TWELVE-YEAR-OLD girl has been killed in a freak accident while riding her pony.

Shannon Bloomfield (right), from Bletchley, died on Sunday afternoon as she competed in a novice indoor cross-country competition at Milton Keynes Eventing Centre in Malt Hill Farm, Hanslope.

Shannon, a member of the Whaddon Chase Pony Club, had been tipped to compete in the 2012 London Olympics.

Her father Darren was watching the event when the accident occurred at around 5pm.

Centre owner Fiona Gifkins was outside but dashed inside when she heard a commotion.

She said: "It was a freak accident.

"She was competing and it was the second-to-last event of the day. It went wrong.

"The pony did a rotational fall over a jump – this is when a horse somersaults and the rider drops vertically below the horse."

A paramedic and doctor were at the event and administered first aid before an ambulance took Shannon to hospital, where she was pronounced dead.

Mrs Gifkins added: "She had only been here a matter of weeks but she made so many friends because she was so bright and cheerful."

Earlier in the day Shannon won her first cross country class – over 2ft 6in solid jumps.

Speaking on behalf of her parents, family friend Andy Fortune said: "She was such a clever and fun-loving child.

"Her whole life was horses.

"She was fearless.

"At the British Show Jumping Championships in 2006 they were talking about her for the 2012 OIympics.

"That was her dream.

"I want to say a big thank you to the doctor, Fiona, and the paramedic, Dave, as well as all the team at Milton Keynes Hospital."

Shannon is survived by her parents, Darren and Wendy, and 20-year-old brother, Tony.

She was a pupil at Cottesloe School in Wing.

Milton Keynes Eventing Centre has cancelled next weekend's shows as a mark of respect.

Flasher offends after window display crush

A HOMELESS man was caught exposing himself outside Ann Summers after 'taking a shine' to the window display.

A shopper called the police after spotting the offender in front of a lingerie display at the adult shop in thecentre:mk, at 10.20am on Saturday.

An officer confronted the man while he was still in the act and arrested him.

John Thompson, 45, appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court on Monday charged under the Public Order Act for intentionally exposing his genitals with intent to cause alarm or distress.

Thompson initially claimed he had been wiping alcohol off of his trousers but was shown CCTV footage of the incident and pleaded guilty at court.

Alisdair King, defending, said: "Mr Thompson accepts full culpability for his actions.

"A close friend of his died and he didn't know whether to throw himself in front of a train or drink.

"Fortunately he chose drink and while in a drunken state he found himself in the town centre.

"His recollection is not very good but he can recall taking something of a shine to the display in the window."

Thompson, with a long grey beard and dressed in a green trench coat and cap, was described as a rough sleeper who stays in Milton Keynes.

Magistrates fined Thompson £40 and ordered him to pay £60 costs using his benefit payments.

SIX hundred people flocked to Milton Keynes Theatre at the weekend to take part in a festival of creativity.

The theatre opened its doors on Saturday afternoon to launch its Live 08 event offering performances, workshops, insights, tours, exhibitions, music and activities.

More than 200 professional and non-professional musicians, performers and artists of all ages gathered at the theatre to create and celebrate creativity.

The performers ranged from Sophie Woolley, a comic actress resident at the Soho Theatre in London; trough 1623 Theatre Company with their version of the seven deadly sins in Sinful Shaxxxpeare; to local artists such as all female Milton Keynes dance group Sleek.

Families, children and young people were invited to take part in the activities that took place around the building.

Workshops included African drumming, singing, Indian dance, art, stage make-up, classical music and filmaking.

The aim of the event was to offer a different experience for people visiting the Theatre.

Education and outreach manager Jodie Gibson said: “Live 08 was a pilot project and it was a great success.

“We were overwhelmed with the amount of people that came, the workshops and tours were full.

“The building was full of noise, activity and creativity.”

Milton Keynes Theatre hopes to make the festival a regular event.

THE NEW Chief executive at Milton Keynes Partnerships is to focus on the growth of the city and give residents the city centre they deserve.

John Lewis (pictured), who will take over the role in April, has been the English Partnerships Regional Director for Eastern England and Milton Keynes since May 2006.

He has lived in Stony Stratford for ten years and has extensive background in the regeneration and development industry.

He said his main challenge when he takes over the reins at MKP will be the growth that Milton Keynes is facing and ensuring developments are delivered well.

"Milton Keynes is at a very crucia stage of its development, there has been an extensive period of plannin and we are now going to focus on delivering those plans," he said.

"We need to make sure that every one is with us as we grow so its about making sure that we are communicating as openly as possible."

"Its about really thinking how people will live in new places.

"You can get too hung up on phys cal design without thinking about th place you are creating.

"I think that's something for us to bring back into Milton Keynes."

He said the city centre is an area he will particularly focus on and is

COMPETITION

Valentine's Day sorted with our competition

As St Valentine's Day approaches and restaurants across the city become fully-booked, MK NEWS is offering two great competitions so that you can put the oven gloves down and treat someone special to a romantic dinner.

COMPETITION 1:

ITALY has long been regarded as one of the most romantic countries in the world, having brought us star crossed lovers Romeo and Juliet, Casanova and of course St. Valentine.

BELLA ITALIA
Caffe • Bar • Ristorante

But for those wishing to stay a little closer to home this Valentine's Day, Bella Italia is setting the pace by bringing a little bit of classic Italy to Milton Keynes.

Bella Italia will be hosting an exclusive evening of romance with a special three course menu especially crafted to help spark the flames of passion.

We are giving three readers the chance to win an exclusive table for two at Bella Italia at Lower 12th Street, Central Milton Keynes, on Valentine's Day along with a £50 voucher to spend.

Choose from a wide range of delectable dishes including Fonduta di Formaggi, a unique 3 cheese fondue with Focaccia bread that is perfect for sharing, and main courses such as pan-fried fillet sea bass on a bed of roasted new potatoes and courgettes or Pollo alla Griglia.

Finish your meal with the perfect aphrodisiac; Torta Cioccolata Tartufata, a decadent chocolate and caramel truffle cake.

Priced at £24.95 per person, the full Valentine's Day menu can be viewed at www.bellaitalia.co.uk . To make a reservation call 01908 395369.

COMPETITION 2:

AS the romantic night approaches many readers might be wondering which restaurant they can book that is romantic, has a great ambience, is candle lit and would be the perfect place to set your temperatures sizzling for the night ahead!

La Tasca can do just that and for those of you who are familiar with La Tasca, few words are necessary for you to appreciate the difference the restaurant could make to your romantic night.

We are offering three lucky readers the chance to win a romantic meal for two with a bottle of cava all worth £70.

La Tasca
SPANISH TAPAS BAR & RESTAURANT

This year the restaurant designed a fantastic five course menu which will leave both you and your partner in cupid's arms.

On arrival customers will receive a complementary glass of cave along with some mixed olives and pan de barrra while they start preparing your first course of tapas including a fantastic tomato and goat's cheese salad with Serrano ham.

This will be followed by some of its most famous dishes including Gambas Pill Pill (prawns sautéed in olive oil with garlic and Spanish guindilla peppers).

The tapas is finished off with the third round which includes a mouth watering Cordero en Salsa (casserole of lamb, with wine, potatoes, mustard and peppercorns).

Finally, indulge in a delicious dessert, washed down with La Tasca's famous sangria and fabulous cocktails.

Three seating times are available: 6pm till 8pm, 8pm till 10pm and 10pm till 12am.

For queries and reservations contact La Tasca at miltonkeynes@latasca.co.uk or call 01908 331920.

HOW TO ENTER

TO be in with a chance of winning one of three tables for two, simply email your name, contact number and address to competitions@mk-news.co.uk along with either Bella Italia or La Tasca.

Alternatively post your details to Bella Italia/ La Tasca Competition, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes, MK15 0DU.

Deadline: Wednesday, February 6.

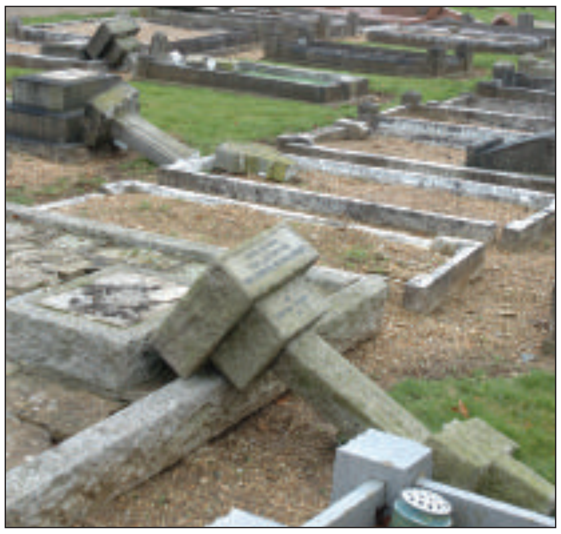
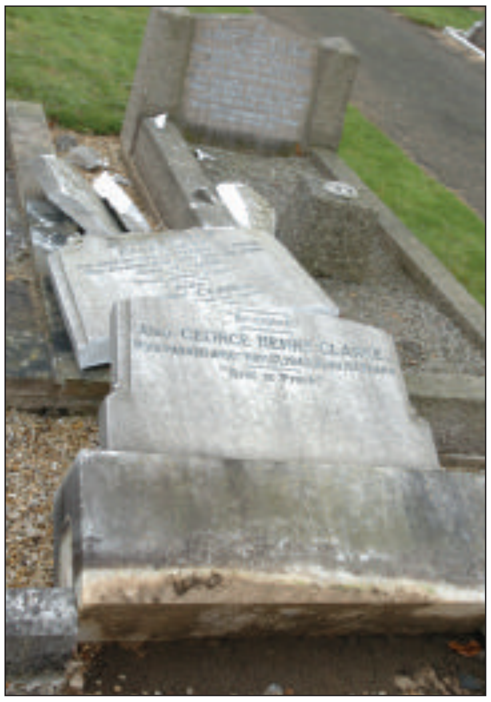
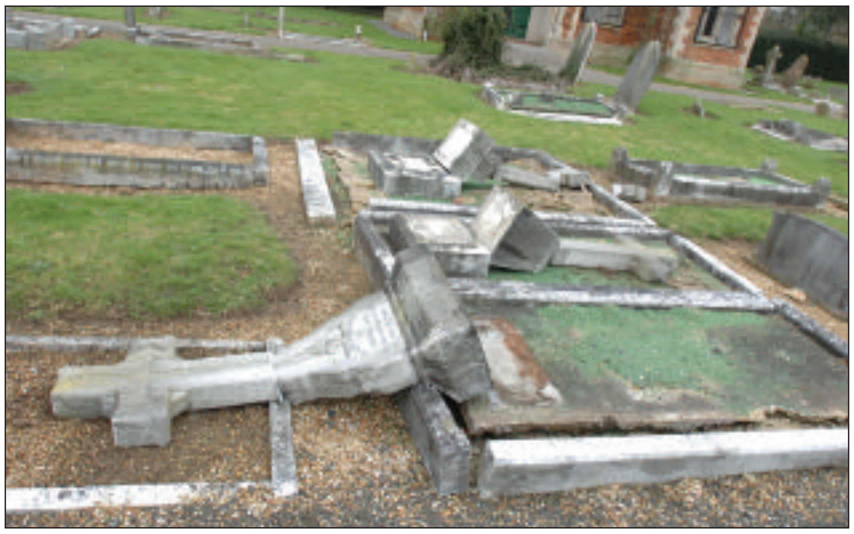
Mindless vandalism desecrates graves in cemetery





Trail of destruction: Damaged gravestone at Manor Road Cemetery in Fenny Stratford



BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

VANDALS have desecrated headstones at a cemetery in Fenny Stratford.

Around 50 headstones were knocked over at the cemetery off Manor Road, near Leon recreational ground between 3pm on Friday and 11am on Saturday.

Police are appealing for witnesses to help identify the culprits.

Neighbourhood Sergeant Gemma Price said: “It is really disappointing to see such senseless vandalism which causes great distress to bereaved families with loved ones laid to rest in the cemetery.

“We would like to hear from anyone that may have witnessed anything suspicious or who knows who is responsible for the damage.”

Sgt Price can be contacted via the 24-hour Police Enquiry Centre on 08458 505505.

Government goes ahead with uni's funding cuts

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A CITY MP has vowed to continue fighting to prevent a cut in funding to the Open University, despite promises of more cash for part-time courses.

The Government wants to cut funding for the majority of students in England and Northern Ireland taking second higher education level qualifications at an equivalent or lower level than their first.

The changes were proposed to create 20,000 new places for first-time learners in higher education.

But the Open University says it would leave it £30 million out of pocket.

The Government has ignored the university's plea to delay the changes, announcing final details of the plans last Monday.

It claims to have made some compromises, including an extra £10million to support courses for part-time students and, guarantees of a regular review of the subjects exempt from the funding changes to make sure courses are protected.

The Government also says the 20,000 extra places created will be distributed in favour of institutions such as the Open University that will be most affected by the changes.

Phyllis Starkey, Labour MP for Milton Keynes South West said: "I am pleased to see that the Government has listened to the strong arguments made by the Open University, myself and others on ELQ (Equivalent or Lower Qualification) Funding and have made significant changes to the detailed proposals."

But conservative MP for North East Milton Keynes, Mark Lancaster, claims there is little new in the announcements.

"Just more promises to 'monitor' and 'review' the situation," he said.

"The Government knows it's made a complete hash of this decision that flies in the face of its supposed commitment to life long learning and, whilst the modest increase in the part time premium is welcome, I will not rest until the Government is forced into a fundamental rethink."

Professor Brenda Gourley, vice-chancellor at The Open University, said it is concerned there is no evidence of student demand for the 20,000 places promised by the Government.

"The OU certainly has no unmet demand," she said.

"It is, however, the fundamental principle of the funding changes for ELQ students that remains of most concern.

"The new policy discourages students from up-skilling or re-skilling and, it discourages institutions from catering to them.

"We believe this will have such a negative impact on individuals and their career development, on institutions and in the wider economy."

She added that the full impact of the changes on the university will not be known until the announcement of the University's grant for 2008/09 from the Higher Education Funding Council for England is made.

Closing Young People's Out of School unit is 'another blow to city'

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A UNIT for pupils who've been kicked out of school is to close.

The referral unit based at Oakgrove (above) – which currently looks after 17 pupils across the city who can't use mainstream education – became the subject of a consulation yesterday.

The curriculum used for the pupils – aged between 14 and 16 – aims to divert them from anti-social and criminal behaviour so they can fulfill their full potential in adult life.

Students work towards achieving academic success through an accredited route.

Parents and guardians of children using the Young People Out of School (YPOS) unit users will now have personal appointments to discuss the options open to their children.

Placements that can provide the most suitable education available will be identified during the consultation.

The changes are part of a borough wide review of alternative education of secondary pupils, which has been taking place over the last year.

The YPOS unit usually offers a one-year programme to pupils, involving either individual or group work, and often work experience.

The council hopes to have new arrangements in place by the end of this term in April.

A letter sent out to all parents by Tim Read, assistant education director, said: "Every effort will be made to continue successful elements started at YPOS such as work experience and college placements.

"Any examinations started will be continued.

"We know the value that YPOS has added to the learning of many young people in Milton Keynes and we are sure that these discussions will help us to build provision that will serve more young people better for years to come."

The YPOS programme also has links with external agencies such as Connexions, the youth service and the youth offending team.

City MP Mark Lancaster said: "As if the looming £65m Government cut to the Milton Keynes education budget is not enough, the closure of YPOS is yet another blow for the city.

"YPOS effectively acts as a 'safety value' for our education system here in Milton Keynes and parents will rightly now be looking for reassurances from the Council as to exactly where these children will be receiving their future education."

Assistant education director, Tim Read, added: "We are only talking about 17 students - but we realise this may cause people concerns, and we want them to be involved every step of the way.

Station to get facelift

IMPROVEMENTS to Wolverton Railway Station are to be made using £1.8 million of growth funding.

Councillor Chris Williams, cabinet member for transport, said: "The refurbishment of Wolverton railway station has been a high priority for a long time.

"Local residents and ward and town councillors are delighted to hear that the project can be progressed without delay."

It is anticipated that construction will commence late summer to early autumn.

A preferred scheme is in the process of being finalised.

Police marching for pay backed by TVP officers

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

MORE than 80 police officers from Milton Keynes joined a protest rally in London over pay.

Two coaches left Milton Keynes at 8am as police joined around 18,500 of their colleagues from across the UK last Wednesday. Officers are angry that a 2.5 per cent pay rise has been backdated to December rather than September and many have spoken of a 'betrayal' by Home Secretary Jacqui Smith.

Speaking from Victoria Street this afternoon, Secretary of Thames Valley Police Federation, Andy Viney, said: "There's been very good support among officers in Thames Valley.

"All the officers are here in their own time and the staffing levels back in Milton Keynes have been maintained.

"We've had a lot of support from the people of London who have lined the route.

"The procession itself is very dignified and controlled."

He estimated that 85 to 90 officers travelled from Milton Keynes, with many others making their way to the capital independently.

A total of 830 officers attended from Thames Valley Police.

The rally is the first mass demonstration by police since 5,000 officers protested against plans for more flexible pay and conditions six years ago.

A spokesman from Thames Valley Police said that policing across Milton Keynes was not affected on Wednesday.

Do not leave your family's future to chance.

MK MP calls for watchdog for our buses

A CITY parliamentary candidate is fighting for a watchdog to be formed to give greater control over bus services.

Andrew Pakes, Labour candidate for Milton Keynes North, is urging local groups to respond to a Government consultation which could see a new national watchdog which will oversee the bus industry.

The document, called 'Options for strengthening bus passenger representation' was published by the Department for Transport in December.

Mr Pakes said: "It is clear to me that local people feel they have very little control over the decisions that bus companies make.

"The bus industry was the only utility to be privatised by the Tory Government without the creation of a consumer regulator.

"A bus champion would begin to give passengers a proper voice, at a time when we know that increasing bus usage is essential to tackle our local traffic issues.

"I urge local groups to read the consultation paper and get involved in the discussion about how to improve passengers' rights."

The Government consultation paper, which outlines four options for delivering a bus passenger champion, can be found on the DFT's website. The closing date for responses is March 17

Mr Pakes has recently become co-chairman of SERA, the national environmental group which is affiliated to the Labour Party, where he has been pressing Ministers for greater local control over bus services.

Last autumn, SERA signed a 'Joint call for bus passenger watchdog' urging the Government to set up the new body, alongside The Campaign for Better Transport, National Pensioners Convention, Friends of the Earth and the UK Youth Parliament.

Pupils sends postcards to children of the future

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

SCHOOL pupils have written postcards to children who will not be born for nearly 40 years to tell them about life in Milton Keynes.

A book containing the postcards has now been published by the educational charity Milton Keynes City Discovery Centre (MKCDC).

Students from 12 primary schools and a school for children with learning difficulties took part describing aspects of their everyday lives in the city.

They wrote postcards to two children, Ali and Lee, living 40 years into the future.

The idea was part of celebrations for Milton Keynes' 40th Birthday and was based on a similar project that was carried out 30 years ago by the People's Press.

One thousand postcards were received and exhibited at Gulliver's Eco-Park in Newlands last year.

They include descriptions of iconic buildings like Xscape and the Church of Christ the Cornerstone and the many parks and roundabouts.

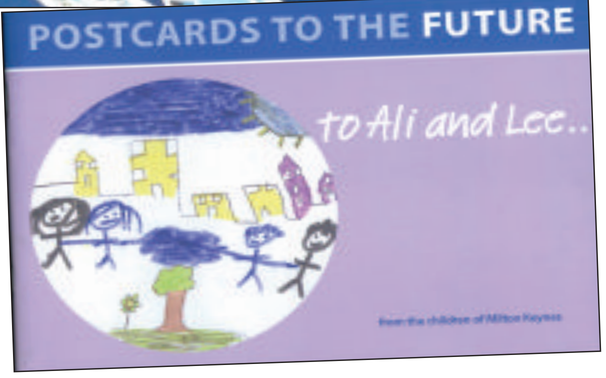
Ten-year-old Chiliyya said: "I love living in Milton Keynes because the schools are great, the people are great, the views are fantastic and the parks are fun."

Georgina, 10, said: "I love going to the concrete cows because you can sit on the grass around them and pretend they're having a race."

The postcards also capture some of the hopes, fears and aspirations of Milton Keynes' youngest citizens.

Young writers: Left, The children from Tickford Park Primary School with the author Julia Jarman, who wrote the Foreword

Literary work: The Book of verses and writings, below



Elizabeth, eight, said: I bet the world will end and they will still be building Milton Keynes."

And Jake, 10, said: "I hope that Milton Keynes will still be like this in 40 years time and not a wasted, polluted town."

The postcards have been whittled down and some of the best published in a book called To Ali and Lee from the children of Milton Keynes'.

Sabina Crouch MKCDC education officer, said: "This book offers a snapshot of life in Milton Keynes in the 21st Century.

"It provides a delightful record of our new city for anyone, whether resident or visitor".

The book was launched on January 23 at Middleton Hall as part of the Heroes and Pioneers exhibition, by children's author Julia Jarman, who wrote the foreword.

It is available to buy for £3 from the MKCDC stand at the exhibition or from the charity's offices at Bradwell Abbey.

Gruesome discovery: Fire and police officers at the fire flat on The Hide in Netherfield

Flat firefighters make grim find

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

FIREFIGHTERS discovered a body by chance when they went to a flat fire in Netherfield.

They were called to a ground floor apartment at The Hide at 1.10pm on Wednesday.

Coincidentally, while fighting the fire, a body was found in the apartment above.

The ground floor flat – number 166 – was completely gutted by the fire.

A man and a woman were taken to hospital suffering from the effects of smoke inhalation.

It is believed that the deceased died from natural causes, but police are waiting for this to be confirmed.

Police and firefighters remain at the scene.

Firefighters and appliances from Bletchley, Broughton and Great Holm attended with group manager Greg Smith and station manager Mick Carson.

They used four sets of breathing apparatus, two hose reels, one main jet and a positive pressure ventilation fan.

Speak up about domestic violence in safety on-line

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

VICTIMS of domestic abuse are being encouraged to share their experiences.

The MK forum against domestic violence, MK Lighthouse and Milton Keynes Women's Aid are asking as many people as possible to complete an online survey which will help improve services.

The online survey has been created by the government as part of an investigation into domestic violence, forced marriages and honour-based violence.

It will run from January 21 to February 29

As many as 1 in 4 women and 1 in 6 men are said to be affected by domestic violence or abuse in their lifetime.

Toni Moore, chairman of the Forum Against Domestic Violence said: "Victims of domestic violence are from all walks of life.

"It is hoped that the Home Office's eConsultation will capture the experiences of victims from a number of different backgrounds".

The eConsultation is completely confidential and anonymous.

The Home Affairs Committee will then report back to the government with recommendations for improving services.

People completing the survey will not be asked for any personal details and will use an anonymous username and password.

Janet Croston, manager of MK Lighthouse said: "This eConsultation is aimed at people who have suffered physical, emotional, psychological or sexual abuse by a close family member.

"They may have been forced to marry against their wishes or have been the victim of so called honour-based violence.

"I hope as many as possible will take this opportunity to influence government policy."

To make your views known, log on to http:forums.parliament.uk/dvec.

If you do not have a computer, or are concerned about accessing the survey at home, you may complete it at your local library, or at Acorn House in central Milton Keynes.

Midwife recruitment drive lightens hospital's load

MOTHERS-to-be are to benefit following the recruitment of 18 new midwife posts at the hospital.

The announcment is welcome news for the city's maternity service, which has been under immense strain recently.

A report out in October said staff were at breaking point, and the lack of a head of midwifery was causing leadership problems.

It said: "With numbers of midwives (and consultants) significantly (and worryingly) below recommended levels and levels elsewhere in the country, and with skewed composition of staff levels in the existing workforce (more akin to that of a teaching hospital than a district general hospital), the signs of a stretched workforce are apparent in the comments from both staff and patients, from the quality of documentation, and from the type of care provided."

The decision to recruit was announced at a council health panel meeting last Wednesday.

It was confirmed that there will be 18 full-time equivalent posts but because some of them will be part-time the hospital will actually offer jobs to around 26 midwives.

Some will work at the hospital and others will be community midwives helping with aftercare and with women who want home births.

There is already a waiting list of midwives wanting to work in Milton Keynes.

But it is just the first step in improving services.

Jill Hope, who conducted a survey on experiences of MK maternity services, said: "I am relieved that the problems caused by too few midwives have been acknowledged, and action has been taken.

"I congratulate the Primary Care Trust on listening and acting so quickly."

The report also highlighted a lack of choice and anxiety felt by many women who do not get to see the same midwife throughout their pregnancy.

Patients attending a pregancy clinic are often forced to stand in the waiting room shared with other clinics because seating is inadequate.

There is no routine access to ultrasound equipment within 24 hours and there is no policy to identify women at risk of domestic violence.

Mrs Hope added: "More midwives will mean that all women in Milton Keynes can have the birth that they want, and more help with breastfeeding, which is so important for all babies and their mothers."

Planning for the future: Ideas workshop for new MK Academy at Leadenhall

Academy's think tank puts forward a wealth of ideas

SWIPE cards for every student, automated toilets and large colourful indoor and outdoor dining areas – these are just a few of the suggestions put forward by students who are being consulted on the design of the new academy for Milton Keynes.

A group of pupils from Sir Frank Markham Community School had the opportunity to travel to London to take part in workshops with leading designers and artists at the Sorrell Foundation, which works with young people on the design of schools.

"It was a great experience to work with adults and professionals who listened to our ideas," said year-8 student Stephanie Matz.

"It's really good that they are asking us what we want rather than just doing what they think is right for us, because sometimes adults can be really boring and old fashioned."

The design challenge is organised by the sponsors of the new academy – educational charity Edge – which supports more practical learning in schools.

Student Jodie Towell said: "We are all so excited about the new academy and can't wait for it to be built. All the ideas are really good. The swipe cards will be a way of improving security or could be used to buy lunch or borrow library books."

> I thoroughly enjoyed listening to the changes that the students would like to see and the high expectations they have for the new academy. It was wonderful to see how excited they all are about the plans and the new opportunities
> Mew academy principal Lorna Caldicott

Added Abdul Qadir: "I like the plan to improve the toilets and provide lockers for storage – we want more space, more spacious corridors and classrooms.

"Astro turf football courts and an internet café are also good ideas put forward."

The students are also meeting and sharing their design thoughts with pupils from schools in Nottingham where Edge is sponsoring another academy.

The local pupils are reporting their proposals back to the Sir Frank Markham School Council and consulting students throughout the school.

Lorna Caldicott, who will be principal of the new academy said: "I thoroughly enjoyed listening to the changes that the students would like to see and the high expectations they have for the new academy.

"It was wonderful to see how excited they all are about the plans and the new opportunities that lie ahead for them.

"We will be focusing on more practical learning at the new academy, which will have a business and enterprise specialism, and will be working with local businesses in a really exciting way to provide students with the skills that are so essential for success in their future lives."

Carlos Rodriguez of Edge added: "We are delighted with the input from the students and the enthusiasm they are bringing to the design project.

"We felt it was extremely important that the school pupils themselves were consulted about what is important to them in the design of their new school and also to ensure a sense of ownership and pride.

"It will be interesting to hear what the rest of the students think about their ideas."

Hospital outpatients department to be refurbished

WORK has begun on an £80,000 refurbishment of the outpatient department at Milton Keynes Hospital.

The redesign means more seating will be added to the reception area, a small extension, new soft-furnishings and modern day-light lighting.

The hospital wants to create a "fresher, clutter free environment" for patients, visitors and staff.

A statement said: "The Outpatients Department was originally completed in 1984, and although the building is modern there is a need to redesign the reception area to increase seating capacity and to upgrade our facilities to offer visitors and staff the best possible environment."

Noisy work will take place out-of-hours to minimise disruption for patients and staff.

Around 200,000 outpatients attended the hospital over 2006/07.

water?" says a Bletchley man whose daughter-in-law is buried in a sodden cemetery.

Bletchley Cemetery, on Selborne Avenue, has been waterlogged since the downpours that have been causing problems across the country soaked Milton Keynes recently.

Lesley Meredith, whose daughter-in-law Ann was buried in the graveyard after she died suddenly last August, said: "The water is all over her grave, my son goes down there twice a day to bail it out.

"They have put planks down for people to walk on.

"It happens whenever it rains, you don't even need it to be a big downpour"

He said his son was "shocked to the core" after his wife died unexpectedly at the age of 59, and this has made coping with the loss more difficult.

"How can anyone rest when you know your loved one is left under water?" he added.

Bletchley councillor Liz Campbell, who campaigned against the cemetery being opened on the site back in 2003, said: "The state of Selborne Cemetery is completely unacceptable.

"It is the ultimate insult to grieving relatives.

"The people of West Bletchley told the council not to build a cemetery here, but they didn't listen.

"The council needs to take immediate action to protect the graves of loved ones and to make sure that drainage problems at the cemetery are sorted out once and for all.

"Apparently grave diggers are taking pumping equipment to dig graves there."

A spokesman for Milton Keynes Council said: "We have had no complaints from our clients, the local funeral undertakers, since the cemetery became operational some 18 months ago.

"We were aware that the Oxford clay subsoils were heavy and do not drain particularly well, so occasionally there are small pools of water on the surface of the grassed area."

He said the water will absorb more easily as the landscaping matures.

He added: "At the time the land at Selborne Avenue was the only potential site available for a new cemetery with sufficient space for about 20 years' use and close to the Bletchley community.

"We believe it was fit for purpose then and continues to be so today."

New homes replace run-down garages

WORK on seven new affordable Midsummer homes has started at a disused garage site.

The former Milton Keynes Council site in Whitethorns, Newport Pagnell, is centred in the middle of a well-established housing estate.

It was previously subject to vandalism and anti-social behaviour, creating an eyesore and causing regular disturbances for the local residents.

Midsummer Housing Association, together with builders, Fernbrook, will be transforming the brownfield land with four two-bedroom bungalows and three two- and three-bedroom houses, in order to create new homes for local couples, families and elderly persons.

The £725,000 development, which is being built with £211,500 Social Housing Grant, will provide four homes for affordable rent and three for New Build HomeBuy (formerly known as shared ownership). They will be of the highest environmental standards, with an EcoHomes rating of Excellent and constructed with Modern Methods of Construction.

Cllr Henderson, housing boss at Milton Keynes Council, officially 'broke the ground' to start proceedings last week.

"I am delighted to see this development come to fruition, especially as there are so few opportunities to provide extra housing for the local people of Newport Pagnell," she said.

"It is also pleasing to note that Midsummer have carried out detailed consultation with the residents in this highly-established area. As a result I, certainly, have only received positive comments about the development."

Lesley Pollock, who is a Board member at Midsummer and also Chair of Midsummer's Development Committee, was also very enthusiastic about the scheme.

"Being able to transform such a nuisance area into affordable homes for people that really need them will make such a difference to this community. Midsummer is delighted to have had the opportunity to work with Milton Keynes Council to make it happen," said Lesley.

The development is due to be completed late summer 2008.

Dig in: Councillor Irene Henderson opens the development

How can you ensure your property goes to your children when you die?

Your complete legal solution:

- ✓ Wills, Trusts, Estates & Inheritance Tax Planning
- ✓ Elderly Client Issues
- ✓ Buying and Selling Houses & Commercial Property
- ✓ Divorce & Family Law
- ✓ Notaries Public
- ✓ Employment Law
- ✓ Commercial Law & Litigation
- ✓ Property/ Tenancy Disputes

There are more risks than Inheritance Tax to your estate. Consider nursing home fees which can eat up almost everything you have worked for. Also consider what happens if your spouse remarries and makes a will in favour of the new spouse?

Considering the risks of what could happen when you die could potentially save your children many thousands of pounds.

To migitate these risks you should make a properly drafted will and consider changing the way the home is owned from Joint Tenants to Tenants in Common.

ALBUM REVIEW

READY FOR THE FLOOR

Hot Chip

THE history of popular music is littered with songs that would've been a damn sight better if only somebody had plucked up the courage to say "Tell you what, let's not bother adding vocals to this one, it's fine as it is".

Eiffel 65's Blue is a fine example of this – take away the stupid yappy bloke and you've actually got a reasonable tune – and anything the Cheeky Girls recorded would surely sound inifinitely better in instrumental form. Here's another candidate to add to the list. It's nice and poppy and has a pretty good tune and for some reason I'm starting to sound like my parents there. That's an unacceptable situation.

Anyway, the problem with this song is that the vocals get right in the way of the song, which is odd really when you think about it. The lyrics are a bit daft, for one thing, and they're also a tad repetitive to boot. Personally, I reckon they'd have been much better off putting this out as an instrumental. Right, next!

THE GIRL IS MINE 2008

Michael Jackson with will.i.am

WHERE to start… OK, first off, any song that has the year of its release stapled onto the end of its name is almost guaranteed to be a pale imitation of the original, which is a nice way of saying comprehensively dire.

Secondly, I wonder why he didn't team up with Paul McCartney as he did for the original? Anyone would think they'd fallen out or something. Thirdly, this song's ancient – I work with people who are younger than this song – which makes me wonder whether Michael Jackson or his record label are simply content to live off past glories.

To be fair to him though, in the ranks of the greatest pop vocalists of all time, he's certainly one of the best dancers. Fourthly, this is being brought out to promote the 25th Anniversary Edition of Thriller, which is one of the most famous pop albums ever made blah blah blah. You may be suspecting that I never really understood the appeal of Mr Jackson, and you'd be right. In my opinion, the last truly great song he did was Smooth Criminal, and that was 20 years ago. The Girl Is Mine was certainly not one of his better efforts, it was all a bit twee and the 'chumminess' between Macca and Jacko… urgh, let's really not go there.

However, a lot of what I've just said leading up to this point has tipped on its side by the new version. I've always said that if you're going to revisit an old song, you've got to stamp your own mark on it otherwise there's no point and bless him, will.i.am has done just that. The title's the same, Michael Jackson is still singing, but that's it. Pretty much everything else has been ripped out, chucked into a skip and replaced with something far more up to date. 'Twee' is not the order of the day, instead the motto is 'in your face'.

It all sounds much harder, Jackson's capital-letter-phobic friend raps virtually all the way through, only pausing for breath while the star of the show does his bit and surprisingly, it's a massive improvement on the original. What does disappoint me is that the two sets of vocals were recorded 25 years apart – if Mike had re-recorded his part then it'd be a proper duet, but as it is really this has to be classed as a remix. Even so, this isn't the lazy cash-in I half-expected it to be – remember the 20 singles that Sony re-issued a couple of years back? – but all the same, it'd be nice if he actually recorded something new for a change. In the meantime, this'll do.

DVD COMPETITION

Get onboard to win 3.10 to Yuma DVD

IN Arizona in the late 1800s, infamous outlaw Ben Wade (Russell Crowe), leader of a vicious gang of thieves and murderers, plagues the Southern Railroad.

When Wade is captured, injured Civil War veteran Dan Evans (Christian Bale) – struggling to survive on his drought-plagued ranch and desperate for money – volunteers to deliver him alive to the '3:10 to Yuma', a train that will take the killer to trial. On the path to deliverance, Evans and Wade, each from very different worlds, begin to earn each other's respect. But with Wade's outfit in hot pursuit, the mission soon becomes a violent, dangerous journey as the two men's destinies intertwine.

Based on Elmore Leonard's short story, 3:10 To Yuma is directed by James Mangold, and produced by Cathy Konrad, the partnership that brought audiences Oscar winning movies such as 'Walk The Line' and 'Girl Interrupted'

The feature is accompanied by stunning special features, including deleted scenes, and exclusive featurettes which explore the making of, inspiration behind and history of 3:10 to Yuma and the ever popular Western.

YOU can win one of these DVD's by answering this simple question.

Who stars as the outlaw Ben Wade?

Send an email to competitions@mk-news.co.uk, complete with your name, address and daytime telephone number.

Closing date is January 30. First drawn from the hat wins. Editors decision is final.

The DVD is available in the shops now, RRP £19.99 and is available on DVD and Blu-Ray.

DESPISED ICON VS MISERY INDEX, BENEATH THE MASSACRE & ANNOTATIONS OF AN AUTOPSY

Saturday February 2

TWO of the World's leading metal labels Centary Media and Relapse Records team up to bring you a killer package of extreme metal featuring Canada's Despised Icon & America's Misery Index. Two of the biggest underground metal bands in the world touring the UK together for the first time.

Despised Icon have upped the ante, these Canadians walk a fine line between the death metal and grindcore genres, resulting in an exciting juxtaposition that will leave all fans of extreme music begging for more.

The music of Misery Index combines the most intense elements of metal with a distinct grind approach, added with a touch of hardcore and extreme punk attitude and passion, thus pushing the limits of metal with an insane mix of regressive thrashing rhythms, corrupting breakdowns and energetic ferocity. Misery Index sets no limits in their goal of making metal and grind flow together in boundless punishing assaults designed to modernize the classic death and grind metal of the early 90's.

Tickets £10. Doors 7.30pm.

Lisa's story is sensational!

'As a wife and mother I had struggled with my weight for 10 years and lived for food. I had looked at all the SureSlim adverts wondering if the people were real. Now I believe them as every time I look in the mirror I see me!!

I joined my local clinic and with their help and support I am 5 stone lighter, happier, healthier and with more energy than I ever had before.

In fact, I have so much energy my children love it and whenever I iron my size 10 jeans – I laugh and think 'Wow, they really are mine!!"

You can do it too!

MKLIVE INTERVIEW

Street's butcher tells all – I said Street's butcher tells all

One of the country's best-loved actors John Savident comes to Milton Keynes Theatre from February 4-9 in the acclaimed Chichester Festival Theatre production of the classic English comedy Hobson's Choice. MK NEWS caught up with John for a chat.

JOHN Savident in full anecdotal flow is surely one of the great phenomena of British show business today, a spontaneous outpouring so entertaining that it should really be classed a national treasure and saved for posterity.

Even the fact that he's recently been diagnosed with type 2 diabetes, now brought under control by medication and some changes in diet – "My least favourite four-letter word," he pronounces - cannot dampen his enthusiasm for a good story well-told.

Titbits from a lifetime in theatre, film and television means he can switch from a morsel on Hollywood icon Faye Dunaway to a snippet about Liz Dawn without pausing for breath and all delivered with the sort of flourish that would have made Sir Donald Woolfit proud.

Audiences will know John best, of course, as Fred Elliot, Coronation Street's booming butcher and one of Weatherfield's most enduring comic creations.

What they might not realise that the actor who was born in Guernsey and grew up in Manchester actually started out in a very different career, pounding the beat as a young Lancashire police officer.

"I was a policeman for six years," he explains.

"Do you remember John Stalker? I was with him. We were cadets and PCs together."

Already an enthusiastic amateur, however, when the chance came to join a touring production of old musical favourite The Student Prince, starring John Hanson, in 1962, he took it.

Over the next three decades he appeared in the full range of TV shows, including The Saint, Callan, The Avengers, Doctor Who and even that other piece of cult sci-fi, Blake's Seven.

He's been a costume drama regular too, with parts in such prestigious slices of ratings hit fare as Moll Flanders, Middlemarch and Parnell and the Englishwoman.

His film career included everything from The Battle of Britain to The Remains of the Day, A Clockwork Orange to Loch Ness while there was a host of theatre too, with parts in rep and the classics.

In 1994, though, he won a lasting place in the nation's affections when he first blustered his way into Coronation Street as the redoubtable Fred Elliott, a man who would never use one word when ten would do.

"I based that on people I knew who really spoke like that," he says. "It was all to do with the Industrial Revolution and the Lancashire mills, where people repeated themselves because of the noise of the looms.

"It was still happening when I was at Mixed Infants. The girls would come out of the factories with cotton fluff everywhere and they used the repetition because it got into normal usage.

"So I started to put it into Fred's speech and people would say: "Are you allowed to do that?"

But I say bugger that! We had all these writers who wrote in the wrong accent!

So Fred is gone but in his place comes another larger than life Lancashire character, the overbearing Mr Hobson, heavy-drinking boot-maker and ultimately browbeaten father – a sort of northern comic King Lear you might say – in the new touring revival of stage classic Hobson's Choice.

"I didn't want to do it really because it was another Lancashire character," he admits.

"For years nobody asked me to play a Lancashire character, only once or twice before Coronation Street and it never really took off. But now I've done Fred and I'm lumbered with it.

"I had all sorts of fears," he laughs.

"People say it's your part and you'll be the definitive one and it's all added pressure on you.

"And when people are expecting something from you, you're going to have to come up with the goods."

BRASSERIE BLANC

301 Avebury Boulevard, Central Milton Keynes
01908 546 590
Reviewed by Rob Gibson

IT is difficult to ignore the celebrity factor ingrained in Milton Keynes' latest 'big name' restaurant.

Raymond Blanc found fame following the successful reality television programme 'The Restaurant' and owns a string of highly-rated establishments across the country.

As you step into Brasserie Blanc it does not take long to spot his face, grinning from the front of every menu on every table.

But while Monsieur Blanc has not been shy in his efforts to endear himself to locals through television and newspaper interviews, he demonstrates a humble approach to cooking.

An advocate of home cooking, his restaurant at the tip of the Hub is home to the first Maman Blanc, a shop dedicated to his mother which sells an array of ready-cooked meals to take home.

The waiting staff add to the homely and personal approach to eating out.

The clientele certainly seem at home and our waiter tells us that the group seated at the adjacent table eat here up to three times a week – which seems a little odd.

But if your wallet can handle three visits a week, your stomach should have no problem – the food is wholesome enough and not too rich.

My partner ordered mussels to start and I wish I had joined her – my first taste of garlic snails was a moment to forget.

The mussels (£5.95), served in white whine and cream sauce, were delicious and plentiful.

My 8oz fillet steak (£22) was medium-cooked to perfection and was utterly satisfying with chips and a side of rocket salad.

The duck in prune saucee (£16.50) was another success, served on a bed of potato fritter with crisp parsnips and green beans.

The desserts were also simple and delicious – a devilish chocolate and hazelnut delice (£5.50) and a treacle sponge pudding with ice cream.

Brasserie Blanc has a lively bistro atmosphere and strives for the perfection of simple traditional French food – with good results.

Woolstone 'wow' factor

THIS five bedroom detached executive residence is situated in the highly sought-after area of Woolstone and boasts a private gated driveway offering extensive off-road parking, double garage and generous private gardens.

The property briefly comprises a lounge, dining room, conservatory, kitchen/breakfast, study, family room, utility and cloakroom. Upstairs there are five bedrooms and two en suites and a family bathroom.

Woolstone is an attractive location within the city boundary to the south of the city centre. This desirable area has a wealth of benefits to include a 'village' green, many walks in the picturesque Ouzel Valley Park, two Public Houses and close proximity to Central Milton Keynes. An excellent range of further amenities are available in Central Milton Keynes including shopping centre, cinema, theatre, ski-slope and main line railway stations.

Price £630,000.

Top of the shops…

JOHN Lewis department stores have been voted Britain's favourite retailer in a poll of over 6,000 shoppers.

The survey – published by retail analysts Verdict Research – ranks John Lewis, who have a store in thecentre:mk, first for customer satisfaction.

Customers were asked to rank high street shops on a number of key criteria: range, price, convenience, quality, service, ambience, facilities and layout. John Lewis increased its overall satisfaction score since last year, and has now been ranked first for service for eight years.

Managing Director of the Milton Keynes branch Deborah Strazza (pictured) said: "We are delighted that John Lewis has been voted Britain's favourite retailer. The partners in MK take a great pride in winning such an award, which is voted for by our customers and is great recognition for the team's hard work."

The retailer has also been voted top in the clothing sector. Hannah McPhail MK's fashion advisor said: "For customers to vote us top in clothing is real evidence that we are giving them what they want. There has been a great deal of improvement in our fashion lines and the assortment of brands we offer over the last few years."

Fashion brands now available at the MK store include: Fat Face, Hobbs, Ted Baker, Esprit, East, Coast, Tommy Hilfiger, Lacoste and Ralph Lauren Polo.

For further information on John Lewis call 01908 679171.

DLSI take the accolades again

A COST consultancy's global group has won an architecture magazine's top award for the 15th year running.

Davis Langdon Seah International (DLSI) has been voted 'Top International Cost Consultant' in Building Design World Architecture magazine's annual poll.

Davis Langdon's Milton Keynes office is working on a number of major projects including Global Academy, Lambeth, Evelyn Grace Academy and Lambeth and Bermondsey Academy, London.

The poll profiles the world's 'Top 100' leading architects and their clients.

Alastair Collins, international managing partner at Davis Langdon, said: "We support design, we don't fight it.

"We want to make a good design better and to build enduring relationships with architects as a result."

This is the latest in a line of industry plaudits for the firm, which has scooped a number of awards for its broad range of consultancy services in the past year.

DLSI is currently working on a number of major projects internationally including Brisbane Tunnel, Cape Town World Cup Stadium, Singapore Sports Hub, Word Trade Centre Cultural Centre and Shard of Glass in the City of London.

Open for business

MANAGEMENT expertise will be on offer as The Open University launches a business club.

The Open University is embarking on an exciting new venture to launch Complexity Management, a business club open to all organisations, whether in the public, private or not-for-profit sectors.

Dr Elizabeth McMillan from the University's Centre for Complexity and Change said: "The club will provide members with the latest management research and an opportunity to share best practice. It will also reinforce our close links with industry and open up a greater pool of research data."

The club is a cross-faculty project, and will draw on the expertise of staff in the OU Business School and in the Faculty of Mathematics, Computing and Technology.

Dr Ysanne Carlisle from the OU Business School explained: "Depending on the level of membership, members will have access to free research and consultancy days, management clinics, workshops and networking events."

The club will go live in June. Free 'Taster' sessions will be offered in Milton Keynes on 1 April and London on 20 February, with more dates planned for May and June.

For further information and to reserve a place at a taster session, please email Dr Elizabeth McMillan, m.e.mcmillan@open.ac.uk or Dr Ysanne Carlisle, y.m.carlisle@open.ac.uk.

Employee Benefits Seminar returns

HOW to improve morale? How to reduce staff turnover and costs? What benefits can be offered to staff?

Answers and advice on these questions will be available free to employers when p&mm, the Milton Keynes based employee benefits experts, welcomes organisations from all over the country at the Employee Benefits Seminar 2008. This event has been a huge success and is now in its third year, the Milton Keynes event will be held at the Holiday Inn Saxon Gate West, Milton Keynes on Tuesday, February 26.

The event will include presentations from experienced voluntary benefits speakers showing how benefits can help improve morale, retain staff and reduce costs. They will also cover the latest news, innovations, developments, prospects and topical issues within the employee benefits industry.

In addition, there will be presentations from HR professionals who have successfully implemented an employee benefits scheme as well as a detailed overview of the various schemes that are available from p&mm including Childcare Plus, Cycle 2 Work, Green Travel 2 Work and the extensive selection of discounts and special offers available through the Lifestyle and Lifestyle Extras packages.

Richard Davies, head of employee benefits at p&mm said: “Organisations ranging from local councils, charities and other public service providers to construction companies, building societies and coffee shops have all gained a competitive edge in the recruitment market and increased incentives for their staff with employee benefits programmes. The aim of the conference is to highlight the tremendous advantages of such schemes and give more companies the same opportunity.

“This event is a fantastic opportunity for visitors to learn about the advantages of total benefits solutions. The event will highlight the benefits of using a single source provider, we will be detailing various examples from our clients’ programmes to show how benefit schemes can generate successful returns.”

To book a free place at the Employee Benefits conference please e-mail lisa.fortune@p-mm.co.uk or telephone 07980 709 193.

INVESTOR IN PEOPLE

AA679286

A unique environment. With unique people.

At the heart of Serco Civil Government, Yarl's Wood Immigration Removal Centre provides safe and secure accommodation for some 400 detained single women and families. We're determined to deliver a service that's professional, friendly and sympathetic, and you can play a vital part in everything we do.

Receptionist/Switchboard Operator

£14,400 per annum

A key member of the team, you'll use your excellent communication skills and organised approach to provide a first-class reception and administrative support service. It's a wide-ranging role, involving everything from answering the telephone and inputting data to managing the detainees' mail system – so there's plenty to keep you busy, if you have an excellent telephone manner and strong administrative ability.

Chef

£15,800 per annum

Assisting the Head Chef and Catering Manager, you will help in the preparation and service of all dishes on the menu and maintain the smooth running of the kitchen. Whilst maintaining exceptionally high standards of food hygiene, you will also demonstrate excellent menu knowledge and presentation. You will act as a positive role model – assisting in the training and development of Catering Assistants in the catering department, alongside advising and working with all other departments.

Hairdresser

£13,300 per annum

Delivering a hairdressing service to all our detainees, you will really use your creativity to the full. You will enjoy exposure to people of every nationality and with varying personalities, so in addition to being a competent and experienced hairdresser, you should bring a high level of cultural sensitivity and a warm and friendly manner.

For all positions, we offer plenty of scope for personal and professional development, as well a comprehensive package of benefits including stakeholder pension scheme, health plan, childcare vouchers, employee assistance programme and more.

Detention Custody Officers

£17,712 per annum

Alongside maintaining general security, you'll work with individuals from a diverse range of nationalities who may never have been held in a specialist centre before, taking responsibility for their safety and security onsite and whilst escorting them to other locations, such as courts or hospitals.

Your common sense, pride in your work and responsible attitude will enable you to deal professionally at all times with our residents, other members of staff and the management team.

Excellent communication skills are vital in this role, working in a challenging environment that offers all the career prospects you can handle.

As well as a competitive salary you'll receive benefits including pension and life assurance schemes, comprehensive training, ongoing development opportunities, employee assistance programme and more.

Please email your CV to angela.gerrard@serco.com or visit www.serco.com/careers

Serco is an equal opportunities employer.

John Bunyan School

Specialist in Maths & Computing

TEACHER OF ICT

MPS – Required for April 2008

Great Job

- Due to rising numbers we wish to appoint a dynamic, enthusiastic and qualified teacher to join this department at this exciting time. This is a period of development for the school with a number of major initiatives under way.
- We are an elected member of the Specialist Schools and Academy Trust Value-added Club.
- Our ICT facilities are second to none. We have six classrooms dedicated to the teaching of ICT, all equipped with IWBs. In the school as a whole we have one computer to every 2.5 students.
- We are committed to your further professional development and provide a first class induction programme.
- This post is for April 2008.

Good Atmosphere

"Students feel well looked after and this high standard of care helps students to concentrate upon their work and achieve well." "The inspectors agree with the school that teaching and learning are good. This is clear from the good progress made by students." "There is a very strong, positive team ethos with staff showing high levels of commitment." (OFSTED Dec 2005)

MKMOTORING

Mazda does its research with new upgrade

NOW on sale in the UK, the upgraded Mazda5 range for 2008 offers customers a nine-strong model line-up with a choice of four powertrains and four equipment levels.

Petrol and diesel engined models are priced from £14,760 (on-the-road), with a new automatic transmission variant available from March 2008 to complete the range.

The upgraded Mazda5 continues the original model's success with a refreshed design, new power sliding doors (as part of an option package) and a new automatic transmission option. The new car has a more luxurious interior finish, more comfort and convenience, new suspension settings for optimised handling and enhanced refinement, improved fuel economy and lower CO2 emissions.

A more individualised Sports Styling Pack is fitted as standard on Sport and Sport Nav models.

Mark Cameron, Mazda UK Marketing Director said: "The upgraded Mazda5 for 2008 is the ideal vehicle for Mazda to consolidate its strong appeal in this segment.

"Our market research confirms that a majority of Mazda5 owners are 35-to-45 year old professionals with young families who enjoy a busy lifestyle and almost 50 per cent of buyers choose the range-topping Sport or Sport Nav models.

"The upgraded model's optional Luxury Pack has been developed as a result of this research and I'm sure it will achieve high take-up. We will continue to market Mazda5 as a fine handling car that has our brand's typically high driver appeal, plus the practical abilities to carry families in considerable comfort and safety," added Cameron.

"Fitting the Sports Styling Pack as standard on both Sport and Sport Nav models will raise their appeal. The availability of dual power sliding rear doors with remote operation and, a little later, automatic transmission, highlights the convenience of Mazda5 ownership."

PREVIEW

League Two
Saturday, February 2. KO 3pm
Giggs Lane

FIVE months ago the new football season kicked off and fans were given an insight as to how their side would fair this year.

On the opening day Bury came to Milton Keynes scored two, conceded one, job done and three points were in the bag.

Meanwhile, Dons fans went home wondering whether defeat to Bury was a sign of things to come.

Today, the two teams are in very different positions with the Dons continuing to stake their claim for promotion at the top of the table, while Bury are floating in mid-table mediocrity.

The Shakers' form is patchy to say the least, before last night's meeting with Grimsby they had won just six of their 25 games this term while the Dons have 18 victories in 28 to their name.

However, the Dons are currently suffering their worst run of form this season with three back-to-back 1-0 defeats and on their own turf Bury may just fancy themselves for the win.

But the Shakers' problems stem a little deeper than the Dons, having sacked Chris Casper at the start of January they are yet to appoint a replacement. Although caretakers Chris Brass and Chris Hutchings did guide them to the fourth round of the FA Cup.

Dons will be hoping skipper Keith Andrews (pictured scoring against Bury earlier in the season) will be fit after picking up a knock in the defeat to Rochdale.

JOHN Miles has joined the Dons on loan until the end of the season.

The Accrington Stanley striker has been brought in as Drewe Boughton has been sent on a months loan with Wrexham.

Miles made his debut in the defeat to Rochdale on Saturday when he came on as a substitute in the 82nd minute.

Meanwhile, defender Matt Carbon has extended his contract until the end of the season.

MK Dons have been short-listed for the Family Club of the Year for League Two in the Football League Awards.

This year the award categories have been adapted to include divisional awards, with clubs from each league going head to head.

The Dons will be up against Lincoln City and Wycombe Wanderers for the Family Club gong. The winners will be announced on Sunday, March 2 at the London Hilton.

Stewart Thomson, Commercial Director of The Football League, said: "This year's new Family Club of the Year award in each division will reward clubs delivering a truly outstanding family experience through their pricing, customer service and Matchday family focussed activity. Once again, the quality of the entries is testament to the commitment and hard work throughout the clubs, and there will be some truly worthy winners."

MK Dons Education and Sports Trust are running February half-term courses for boys and girls aged 3-14 years. All courses will be running at Woughton on the Green from Monday, February 18 through to Friday, February 22. Courses available are Mini Kickers, Toddlers (3years), Pro Camp, Goalkeepers, Strikers and Multi sports. For more information visit www.mkdonstrust.co.uk or telephone 01908 622888.

MK DONS v ROCHDALE SATURDAY, JANUARY 26

Scoring chance: Sean O'Hanlon blasts the ball over from five yards after it had rebounded of the woodwork from an Aaron Wilbraham header

Bogey side deny Dons points in narrow defeat

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

ROCHDALE are quickly becoming a bogey team for MK Dons.

Down to ten men, a penalty awarded against them, away from home, it would have been easy to bet against Rochdale.

But a match winning display from goalkeeper Sam Russell and a solid performance throughout their team ensured Dale were never prepared to give an inch to the Dons.

Last year they hammered the Dons 5-0, and earlier in the season they turned a 2-1 defeat into a 3-2 victory in the final minute. This time round it was a sneaky 1-0 that ensured Dale took three points from the League Two leaders.

Sneaky because 12 minutes in Dean Lewington was brought down in the box and referee Mick Thorpe duly pointed to the spot, and while Keith Andrews was getting ready to take the spot kick Nathan Stanton argued the decision.

The Dale defender was shown yellow, but still continued to dispute Thorpe's actions, seconds later received his second caution for descent and was sent down the tunnel for an early shower.

After the delay Andrews stepped up and sent his penalty to the bottom left corner, but Russell managed to get his hand to it and palm the ball away to keep honours even.

Russell, who spent the summer on trial with the Dons and featured in the goalless friendly against Crawley, seemed to grow in confidence after the save and became a thorn in the Dons' side.

It turned out to be a decisive moment in the match as Dale regathered, rearranged their formation and played superb counter attacking football.

The winning goal came as Kallum Higginbotham broke from his own half raced down the right, shrugged off a challenge from Drissa Diallo, and laid the ball on for the on running Gary Jones who simply tapped in at the far post. It was a move that oozed class but left the Dons rueing the missed penalty twenty minutes earlier.

Chances aplenty fell to the Dons, yet every bounce seemed to fall the wrong way and when it looked like they had beaten Russell in goal, Dale players appeared and cleared the lines.

Aaron Wilbraham went agonisingly close to levelling the score when his header from Lewington's corner hit the post and to sum up the Dons' day Sean O'Hanlon blazed the rebound over the bar.

Despite three consecutive 1-0 defeats assistant boss Ray Mathias insists the Dons will not start panicking just yet.

He said: "We played some good football and created plenty of chances so nobody is pressing the panic button here.

"There was no lacklustre play today, we felt the players were superb but missed chances to win the game comfortably.

"If the penalty goes in we could have won by a cricket score but unfortunately it didn't.

"When you play against 10 men they re-group and make life difficult for you just as we did at Wycombe earlier in the season. But we had the chances to kill them today and we didn't take them."

MK Lions were dumped out of the BBL Trophy despite being handed a lifeline last week.

A win over Leicester would have secured their place in the semi-finals with a mouthwatering clash with Newcastle Eagles, the team they beat in the BBL Cup final, but were instead left reeling as the home side recorded a narrow victory.

To add to their woes, results that followed meant the Lions, who could have topped the group, finished third in the group with a record of three wins and three defeats.

With one piece of silverware already in the cabinet this season the Lions had been looking at the possibility of claiming the treble.

Macauley said: "We are hugely disappointed, I am personally disappointed but really more so for the fans, they invest so much into us in terms of money and support that we owe them a better performance.

"We could have won the game, this is a team we blew out by 32 points last week, and it's our fault we didn't win."

LOCAL RUGBY

OLNEY moved three points clear at the top of the Southern Counties north division following their 21-7 win at the Grove.

It was a hot-tempered affair with the referee dishing out six yellows and one red. Despite Olney being down to 13 men at one point, they always looked like comfortable winners.

The first try came as Grove tried to clear their lines and winger Scott Filler collected, ran in field and set up the forwards, the ball was then recycled and eventually offloaded to Will Edwards who dived over to complete a fantastic phase of play from Olney.

Shortly after Edwards grabbed his second following some good work from the forwards, he was able to bundle over to give Olney a 14-0 lead at half-time.

Centre Rhys Peakman ran in Olney's third of the evening, before the Grove hooker scrambled over for a consolation try.

MILTON Keynes moved up to fourth place with a hard-fought win over Buckingham.

A closely contested match was kept score less for the majority of the first-half before Buckingham secured a turnover ball and their scrum half raced down field to give his side a 5-0 lead five minutes before the break.

But the advantage was cut to just two points as Phil Powell stepped up to convert a penalty from 30 years.

All MK's points came courtesy of Powell's boot as he kicked two more penalties after the break and when the full back slotted home a drop goal he secured a 12-5 victory.

Lightning back

MK Lightning bounced back from two cup defeats to beat Telford Tigers in the league.

But the 7-3 win over the Tigers could not take the sting out of their exit from the EPL Cup midweek.

A bizarre fault with the Milton Keynes countdown clock meant the game against Bracknell Bees was cut short by at least seven minutes as it counted down at a rapid rate.

The technical glitch went unnoticed during play but was spotted when player-coach Nick Poole viewed tapes of the game to dissect his side's performance.

Adding further to their misery, Lightning were unable to make their one-goal advantage from the first leg count as Bracknell progressed through to the final.

Gary Clarke and Matt Towalski managed to get Lightning in front with score reading 6-5 on aggregate but Matt Foord struck four minutes from time to take the game into over time, where Bracknell hit two to knock MK out.

It did not get any better for Lightning as they travelled to Swindon Wildcats in need of a win which would have taken them through to the knockout cup semi-finals, but instead walked away on the wrong end of a 3-4 score line.

Clarke bagged two and Grant McPherson grabbed the other as Lightning held a 3-1 advantage over their hosts but Swindon turned on the style to overturn the deficit.

When Lightning managed to return to winning ways Clarke was once again at the centre of the performance with three goals to his name.

Ales Parez, Toni Alasaarela, Kurt Irvine and Mikko Skinnari rounded off the 7-3 victory which keeps Lightning third in the league.

■ MK Lightning host Wightlink this Saturday at 7pm, and then travel to Chelmsford on Sunday, face-off is at 6.30pm.

Fastest man on earth

WHILE other athletes have their eyes on the Olympics, Craig Pickering has set his sights on a medal at the World Indoor Championships.

The Milton Keynes sprinter started the Indoor season, which began at the weekend in Glasgow, in spectacular fashion by setting the world's fastest time this year, 6.57 seconds (see picture above).

But even more importantly his victory in the 60 metres took Great Britain from third to first and clinched victory over the US and Germany by one point.

After a great start off the line, something Pickering has been working tirelessly on, the 22-year-old powered passed fellow Brit Simeon Williamson and training partner Ryan Scott, who ran as a guest, to record an emphatic win.

"My start was very good but you don't win with just a good start." Pickering added, "I am very pleased with the way I held my form right through to the line."

Long jumper and MK Athletics Club team mate Greg Rutherford has opted out of the indoor season to concentrate on the upcoming Olympics in Beijing but Pickering is looking to use the season as a spring board for success in the outdoors.

"It is great to be in this sort of form already in an Olympic year but my focus now is on the World Indoor Championships.

"In a final, if you can run 6.5sec that's a medal and that is my aim."

Local football round-up

STONY STRATFORD TOWN moved level at the top in Division One of the South Midlands league following their 3-0 win over Ampthill Town in Saturday afternoon's blustery encounter.

Fifth placed NEW BRADWELL ST PETER were held to a goalless draw by Royston Town while BUCKINGHAM ATHLETIC lost 2-0 to Amersham Town.

In Division Two OLD BRADWELL UNITED lost 4-1 to Risborough Rangers.

NEWPORT PAGNELL TOWN ended a run of eight consecutive defeats as they beat Raunds Town 4-2 and by doing so are now 15th in the United Counties Premier Division.

In Division Two OLNEY TOWN slipped to fifth place as they lost 5-3 to Northampton Sileby Rangers.

Former troubled Gunner to speak

ARSENAL legend Paul Merson is set to tell all about his life in football when he comes to Milton Keynes.

The former Gunner, who also had spells with Middlesborough, Aston Villa, Portsmouth and Walsall, spent 21 years playing professionally and has plenty of behind the scenes memories to share.

Fans can have their chance to meet with the former-England midfielder when he attends the Sportsman's Dinner held at stadiummk.

The event, organised by Milton Keynes Sporting Club and sponsored by MK NEWS, follows the highly successful evening with Matt Le Tissier last year.

The evening, which includes a four-course meal, will take place on Thursday, February 21 and will start at 7.30pm.

Tickets cost £40, for more information call 0871 7261235 or visit www.mksportingclub.co.uk.

Dons make point at last

Lead back to five points despite missed chances

Football League Two

MK Dons 1
O'Hanlon 50

Macclesfield 1

So close: A diving Drissa Diallo fails to connect from a cross as the ball then bobbles in the box

SEAN O'Hanlon grabbed his first goal of the season last night to end MK Dons' three game duck as they drew 1-1 with Macclesfield Town.

A bad mistake from December's player of the month Willy Gueret handed the Silkmen an early lead, but a second-half onslaught eventually paid off for the Dons.

There is something about Paul Ince's side which means they will not hand over points willingly as recent results over Peterborough and Darlington have proved.

However, following three successive 1-0 defeats the Dons were desperate to walk away with something from the game.

The pattern was all too familiar in the first half as the match was there for the taking yet goals were hard to come by for the Dons.

And when Macclesfield were gifted the lead after just three minutes it did little for the host's confidence.

Under little pressure Danny Swailes played it back to Gueret who fluffed his kick to the left where Michael Symes stood waiting.

With Gueret well off his line the striker simply hooked a stunning strike from 25-yards into the top corner – while the keeper simply watched in horror.

A reply could have been instant from the Dons with Aaron Wilbraham sending a close range header over the bar, before Keith Andrews – who passed a late fitness test – sent Lloyd Dyer's cross the same way.

Opportunities fell for the home side but the Dons struggled to force an equaliser as Andrews had a low drive deflected away from goal and when Lewington sent a flat corner into the box on the half-hour-mark players tried their best to stab home the ball, which seemed to drag across the goalmouth for an age, yet Macclesfield eventually kicked away from a corner.

Dons were knocking on the door throughout the half and once again it was captain Andrews with the efforts testing Silkmen keeper Jonathan Brain. His curling strike just left of the box hit a Macclesfielddefender and still had Brain juggling dangerously on his line.

Ince shuffled his pack at half-time bringing on Jude Stirling and Jemal Johnson in place of Drissa Diallo and Mark Wright respectively. It was a move that paid five minutes into the restart as Stirling played his part in getting the Dons back into proceedings.

The utility man knocked on Lewington's inswinger from the left, and despite cries of handball from the home crowd, defender O'Hanlon pounced on the spilt ball to smash in the leveller.

While Macclesfield continued to weather the storm they had spells of their own with Terry Dunfield keeping Gueret on his toes, hitting a dipping dead ball delivery which the Dons keeper palmed over the cross bar.

It seemed like the flood gates would open for the Dons they were finding room in the middle and exploiting gaps down the flanks. However, the final touch was still absent and this was highlighted when Kevin Gallen momentarily forgot his striking boots missing a sitter from 12 yards.

O'Hanlon came within inches of a winner deep into injury time when he knocked Lewington's corner agonisingly over the bar.

Although the Dons should have have won by a convincing scoreline, the 6,000 strong crowd would have been relieved to see points back on the board.
